USC Offering Special Teaching Curriculum

Opportunity for mature persons who hold college degrees in fields other than education to earn their teacher credentials in 15 months while earning full salary is offered by the University of Southern California.

Under this program, selected students attend one summer session at USC, taking basic professional education courses and practice teaching. The students then enter a cooperating school in the Los Angeles area on a provisional credential and teach for the school year, returning to USC one evening a week for course work. Following a second summer session, the student is granted a general teaching credential at either the elementary or secondary teaching level.

Work done under this program can be applied toward a master's degree.

APPROXIMATELY 750 teachers have been trained under this program during the nine years it has been in operation, according to Dr. Donald E. Wilson of the USC School of Education.

At the present time, there is special need for persons holding degrees in mathematics, science and English who are interested in teaching at the secondary level, he said. No special major field of training

Bank Offers Insurance to Vacationers

For the second year, Pacific State Bank will offer low-cost vacation travel insurance protection as a service to its customers using travelers' checks.

President R. C. Yeary said the response to last year's travel insurance program was "outstanding" and is again available effective immediately.

In contrast to the limited common carrier coverage offered in airport and depot machines, the Bank's accident protection is effective 24 hours a day anywhere in the world, Yeary said.

Protection for the entire family is provided in the plan which will pay cash benefits for medical injury expenses and also a lump sum payment to $50,000 in case of accidental death, dismemberment, or total disability.

The vacationer chooses only the amount of insurance he wants for the exact number of days he needs, paying only for that length of time.

Application forms are available at the tellers' windows of the offices of Pacific State Bank in Hawthorne, Lennox, Windsor Hills, Peninsula Center, and Torrance.

WOWING THE BOYS... Bonnie Wagner, who has made many television appearances and films at 20th-Century Fox, is wowing the boys nightly at Caesars on Pacific Coast Highway in Waverly with her frank admission, "I like men." It's evident from her reception that the men like her, too. P.S. It's equally apparent that the ladies also like her fast-paced routines.

The Aguilas Return With Mariachi Band

The air is electric with excitement at Marineland Restaurant in Palos Verdes, and the cause of it all was the crackling of sparks that an extraordinary show generated at its opening this week in the "Porpoise Room."

Mexico's foremost Mariachi band, The Aguilas, which recently created such a terrific impact here, has returned for a repeat engagement, encoring the spirited music that earlier in April had scored such a hit at Marineland Restaurant.

Mariachi songs and sounds are again proving rewarding, attests owner-host George M. Foster, as the band continues to draw salvos of applause in the "Porpoise Room."

The Aguilas is a superb group whose instrumentation consists mainly of brass horns and stringed guitars. The musicians are brilliantly costumed in garments which, like Mariachi bands, are truly native of Old Mexico. Mariachi music is characterized by an exuberant, carefree quality.

The show-stopping repertoire of The Aguilas, instead of a brief stand this time, will entertain for five weeks, closing the return engagement after their July 14 appearance.
